Jesse Macleans life is in flux. Laid off from his job going into the holiday season, Jesse is facing debt he no longer has the means to pay. He is consumed with financial worry. Given his precarious financial situation, Christmas is far removed from Jesses thoughts. But that changes when he visits his grandparents in Vermont and discovers that his wife packed the family Christmas Tin in his duffel bag. The Christmas Tin inspires his grandparents to share their stories with him, poignant holiday stories of faith, hope, and perseverance during hard times. Stories that might just give Jesse cause to re-evaluate his situation and learn that good things can happen even in the most trying of times especially during the holiday season.
