

A Sahibs Daughter

A Sahibs Daughter is a novel in the historical romance genre set in the tea plantations during the period following British rule in India. Love crosses racial boundaries when Charles is captivated by local beauty Ramona and when Ravi explodes into Samira's genteel life on his red motor cycle. Samira's impulsive reactions take her down a path of drama and disaster through the glens of Ireland and Justin's efforts at deception come back to bite him. In Delhi, tempers explode and promises are broken days before Ravi's society wedding just as Mark arrives on the scene with a revelation that has Ravi reeling. In a final twist we learn the true identity of Ramona, a secret her mother will never ever tell.
