

Autobiography of a Pocket-Handkerchief (Annotated)

Autobiography of a Pocket Handkerchief is a serial novel by James Fenimore Cooper first published by Grahams Magazine in 1843. The novel explores the upper crust of New York Society from the perspective of a womans handkerchief. After the initial publication in Grahams Magazine the novel was published by several other magazines, including Brother Jonathan. The novel was published in whole in 1843 by Coopers London publisher Richard Bentley under a separate title, The French Governess; or, The Embroidered Handkerchief. In 1845 a German publisher also published the work in full.
