Bees master the transfer of information. Information in their case is sharing of the location of the nectar filled flowers: when a bee has found a nectar filled flower, she will zoom and communicate to the other bees where this flower is located. The local bees in the stung-by-local-bee city experience guides tell you where the city nectar can be found so that you can taste the real city. The local bees are inhabitants and recommend their favorite bars and restaurants. Forget the classic tourist guide, your next trip is all about city experiences and discovering a city in a way you have never done before. The different profiles of local bees come up with different propositions since they answered the survey from their background and that is exactly why this travel guide will make your trip unforgettable. This guide will not only save you money but time as well. It is written by locals who love their city and who are willing to share their city secrets. By following their advice you will be guided away from the classical tourist traps, you will enjoy the best food and drinks. This guide is updated every 6 months, so you can be sure that 100% of the city secrets are still alive and up-to-date.
