

For Want of a Horse (Coronet Books)

This book is the basis of the 1976 film From Noon Till Three starring Charles Bronson and Jill Ireland. The setting is the American West, late 19th century. A gang of bank robbers led by Graham Dorsey (Charles Bronson) is off to rob a small-town bank, but Graham is having second thoughts: he's had a nightmare in which the gang was wiped out during the robbery attempt. Worse, Graham's horse broke down and the gang members have to get another. They try at the ranch of the widow Amanda Starbuck (Jill Ireland). Amanda, suspicious of the men, denies having a horse. Graham checks out the barn and finds a horse, but still afraid of disaster, he lies to his men and agrees to wait three hours at the ranch for their return (the from noon till three of the title). It turns out he has another reason for wanting to stay behind though: he wants to force himself on Mrs. Starbuck.
