--> please refer to the item condition on the offer page for details of condition. This section is disabled because youre listing against an existing ASIN. -> this is what i was told when i posted this, selling an item that is already on amazon. numerous sellers have already have this item posted and this feature was disabled due to that fact. only after i posted it is this site asking me to describe a already described item...? this is confusing because now i have to go back and edit every single ad i wasnt able to describe in the first place... why have sell similar and have disabled functions only to make me do it later...
