

Svetlanas Garden

Driven by a desperate mother to investigate the mysterious death of her conscript son in Siberia, journalist Svetlana Dorenko tracks puzzling clues painted on the walls of Moscows seedy underbelly while pursued by a sinister FSB officer. After seeing colleagues murdered by state and underworld forces, she investigates against the better judgement of her editor but with growing love for an American TV reporter who joins her in the search. Who is the evasive artist who paints the playing-card clues? Will the FSB discover the headstrong journalists involvement before she unearths the truth? Will the clues lead to the killer and uncover a plan to unleash state-sponsored terrorism on a former Soviet republic? Will she live to love or love and die?
