

Desert Flower (The Desert Book 2)

Bodies have a canny way of finding Samantha Jean Haggert--the first, the dead body of her mama; the second, a naked man in the middle of the Arizona desert. For Sam, dealing with one dead body in her lifetime was more than unfair. Two is downright cruel. Seven years after running from West Virginia, Sam is now a young woman of nineteen, trying to put the pieces of her life together with the help of her family Jacob, Boone, and Laura. But the naked man in the desert spirals her world out of control, resurrecting past hurts and revealing old secrets. It also pits against one another the two men who vie for her heart: Carson, her friend, her first kiss, and the one man who knows everything about her past and loves her despite it; and Turner, the stranger who knows nothing, but who excites and frustrates her all at once. When bad choices made as a child lead to more bad choices as a young adult, Sam finds herself at a crossroads, forced to face her demons head-on if she plans to have any future at all with Carson, with Turner, or with anyone. But fixing the wrongs of the past takes time, and learning to forgive oneself is damn near impossible. Desert Flower by Angela Scott Evolved Publishing brings back some old friends in this harrowing sequel to the award-winning Desert Rice. Revisit the characters so many readers have loved. [DRM-Free][Young Adult (16+), Coming of Age, Contemporary, Saga, Literary] She broke my heart in two with Desert Rice, and now, she follows it up with this gem of a novel. With beautiful prose, a distinct and enchanting voice, and life-altering themes of love, forgiveness, passion and hope, Angela Scott once again brings readers into the very heart of her characters lives. ~ Timiosanthos I've cried like a baby throughout this entire book, right until the end. Desert Rice and Desert Flower are MUST READS!! When you do, you will feel exactly as I do now. There aren't enough words to express my praise for these two books. ~ Heather C. Cox
