

STARGATE SG-1: Relativity

Future imperfect When SG-1 encounter the Pack a nomadic space-faring people who have fled Goauld domination for generations it seems as though a trade of technologies will benefit both sides. But someone is determined to derail the deal. With the SGC under attack, and Vice President Kinsey breathing down their necks, its up to Colonel Jack O'Neill and his team to uncover the saboteur and save the fledgling alliance. But unbeknownst to SG-1 there are far greater forces at work a calculating revenge that spans decades, and a desperate gambit to prevent a cataclysm of epic proportions. When the identity of the saboteur is revealed, O'Neill is faced with a horrifying truth and is forced into an unlikely alliance in order to fight for Earths future. STARGATE SG-1: Relativity Back in the tunnel-like corridor, Jack and Daniel made their way down the passageway. The alert sirens were sounding as the detachments made their way through the open wormhole to the Packs rendezvous point. You think Tealc might be right? O'Neill asked the question without looking at the younger man. What, are we going to break out the thumbscrews, Jack? The scientist pinched the bridge of his nose. Come on, I mean forceful application? He was talking about torture. O'Neill shot him a look. Tealcs been on the wrong end of a Goauld pain-stick enough times to know what its like, Daniel. And I had my fair share too. Its not something hed say lightly. I cant believe were even having this conversation. Jackson shook his head. I didnt say we were gonna stretch her on a rack, damn it! The colonels temper flared briefly. But we might have to ask some hard questions. Im thinking we could call in the Tokra, maybe use that mind-scanner gizmo they got. You say that like its the gentler option. Jack stopped and looked the other man in the eye. Hey! He snapped his fingers in front of Daniels face. Hey, Space Monkey! Look at me! Whats goin on? This woman lied her ass off to you, she tried to blow us all up, and here you are stepping up to defend her? Am I missing something?
