These selected paragraphs distill the contents and give you a quick look inside: He said he would rather have died than interrupt me, but when he was employed to do a job, and that job was expected to be done in a clean, workmanlike manner, and when it was finished and fatigue urged him to seek the rest and recreation he stood so much in need of, and he was about to do it, but looked up and saw at a glance that all the calculations had been a little out, and if a thunder-storm were to come up, and that house, which he felt a personal interest in, stood there with nothing on earth to protect it but sixteen lightning-rods-Let us have peace! ... Hm, Reverend Le-well, there was a feller here, once by the name of Jim Smiley, in the winter of 49-or maybe it was the spring of 50-I dont recollect exactly, somehow, though what makes me think it was one or the other is because I remember the big flume warnt finished when he first come to the camp; but anyway, he was the curiousest man about always betting on anything that turned up you ever see, if he could get anybody to bet on the other side; and if he couldnt hed change sides. ... Parson Walkers wife laid very sick once, for a good while, and it seemed as if they warnt going to save her; but one morning he come in, and Smiley up and asked him how she was, and he said she was considerable better-thank the Lord for his infnite mercy-and coming on so smart that with the blessing of Providence shed get well yet; and Smiley, before he thought, says, Well, Ill resk two-and-a-half she dont anyway
